Foreword

 O you, the reader, the members of the 1925 Dean submit, as our united effort to record the activities of the whole school, this year-book of the Phillips Exeter Academy. We have been given our opportunity to do our part in making memorable the triumphs of the student body on the athletic field and in the field of literary and scientific development. How successful our efforts have been is for our readers to judge. In the pages which follow we have endeavored to portray the life of the school as specifically as can be done by mere photographs and unemotional print. The true Exeter spirit, which throbs in the veins of every Exeter man, cannot be made clear through the speechless medium of a tabulated account, dealing with the happenings of a single year, but must be understood by personal experience.

President	JOHN A. BRANDENBURG, Pineville, Ky.
Vice-President	FRED A. SIMMONS, JR., Brookline, Mass.
Secretary-Treasurer	WILLIAM K. LANE, JR., New York, N.Y.

FOUR years ago when the class of 1925 entered the Academy, a certain professor informed us that not one third of the original seventy-six would ever graduate. We have faithfully kept the record of those seventy-six, and now our numbers have dwindled to just one third. But then, our class has been strengthened each year by new boys until we aggregate over twice the first enrollment. In those four years we have risen slowly, step by step, moulding our course, and fashioning our years, until now we stand ready to step forth into the college world, fit students for those advanced subjects possible only through our fundamental training here.

But Exeter is a miniature college in itself. After four years here the average boy has acquired the character and bearing of the college man, and has had experience in looking out for himself. Here the student is his own master. Left to his own devices the boy either buckles down to real work or lets things slide by without working. In the second instance the watchful eye of the faculty sees this lack of application and remedies it either by study hall or probation. Thus the boy is guided in his work until the habit of concentration is well-developed. Then the boy is free to guide himself again and this time keeps up his work. Naturally when he gets to college this habit continues and the average Exeter graduate is a success in college. So all of you have proved yourselves to be your own masters and fit candidates for the larger world of college. It now remains for actual experience to prove the result of your preparation here.

Upper Middle Class

TO you, the Class of 1925 relinquishes the leadership of the school. We have completed our work and enjoyed our play here, and now as alumni we place our confidence in you.

We regret, it is true, that we are to leave; for we see so many things that we might have done and which you still may do. You who have now been here three years have in that time been laying the foundations for the extra-curriculum activities and interests which will be open to you as Seniors. You have been learning to know Exeter and the Exeter spirit. It is for you in the one remaining year now before you to put this knowledge and experience to good use. It is you who are to become the leaders of the school. It is for you either to build upon these foundations or to let the foundations themselves waste away. Build! Exeter furnishes the material—it is yours for the taking. On the other hand don't forget that the primary goal of your Senior year is a diploma. Keep your studying ever before you as the duty which must first be completed to make all the other activities possible. Too many foolhardy Seniors have seen their diploma slip from their grasp through their own lack of preparation.

Now, on behalf of the Class of 1925, we wish to you every possible measure of success which is your reward.

LOWER MIDDLE CLASS

Lower Middle Class

LOWERS! May you rise to the realm of Upper Classmen with a feeling that at last your position in the school is recognized. As Upper Middlers you will have laid aside the last vestige of your youthful and immature days to become men, the colleagues of the leaders of the school. In an amazingly short time you will be called upon to uphold the traditions and honor of the school, and it is necessary that you fill that position as all Exeter men should. Make the most of next year. Enter the various extra-curriculum activities with the idea that when you have attained the top of the ladder Exeter will be as fine a school as the day you first were here.

Don't think because you are merely Upper Middlers your responsibility will sleep until your last year. Remember that it is the Upper Middle year which forms the spool around which the thread of your Senior year is woven. In athletics, it is the nucleus of the last team that makes possible the next successful team. In the literary life, it is the Upper Middlers who bear the burden of leadership the following year. In studies, it is the Upper Middlers who become Cum Laude men in the Senior year.

Junior Class

PREPS! No more will you be desecrated by that ugly name. You have successfully completed this, your first year at Exeter, and are about to advance to the Lower Middle Class.

You have ended your struggle to keep above the strangling group of Latin I and have ceased your playful pranks. Next year you will scorn the lowly chalk-throwing, shrill-voiced "Prep." You will take a great delight in defeating the "Prep" team on the athletic field. You will condemn the secret visits to another room in the dead hours of the night as childish. But don't forget that you are still mere boys. It is not for you to mingle with the lordly Seniors or while away your time trying to be a pal to the Upper Middler. Stick with your classmates. Make your friends in your own class. It is they who will be associated with you at Exeter, and not the older boys who will soon leave for college. Don't be disappointed if you fail to make some athletic squad. Don't feel insignificant if every Senior Council man doesn't call you by your first name. Often they were not well known themselves until they held that honored office. Countless Seniors have shown the stick-to-it-iveness which has given them an "E" in their last year. Above all, help the new boys to acquire the atmosphere of Exeter. Point out to them the opportunities which you yourselves have taken advantage of and you will find grateful friends to make your life at Exeter a pleasant memory.

Debating

DURING the school year 1923-24, debating at Exeter reached a critical point in its existence. Despite the fact that there were in the school two of the country's oldest debating societies, scholastic or collegiate—the Golden Branch, 1818, and the G. L. Soule, 1881—and that debating had been more or less a part of Exeter during this time, interest in this activity had been slowly flagging for several years. This was undoubtedly due to the growth of interest in sports and other extra-curriculum affairs. Hence, in June, 1924, the two societies were combined under the name of the Golden Branch, in order to strengthen interest in debating and permit of outside debates. However, the G. L. Soule retains its identity and may be reorganized as such whenever circumstances permit.

The Golden Branch took as its object the training of its members in public speaking by means of open-forum discussions and debates with other schools. Open discussions on current topics were held throughout the fall term, and during the winter term a series of try-outs were conducted in order to pick a debating squad of nine men. Twenty-five students tried out and more interest was shown in debating than for several years past. Debates were held with the Brown University Freshmen and with Worcester Academy. If it is felt from the results obtained this year that the efforts toward awakening interest in debating have been successful and worth while, it is hoped that the policy of combining outside debates with open-forum discussions will continue. The alumni of the two societies have done much to foster interest in this phase of Exeter life.

Musical Clubs

MUSICAL activities during the past year have been extremely successful. Not only have the concerts of the Musical Clubs both here and elsewhere been excellent, but Mr. Shrewsbury's organ recitals and the occasional Sunday night concerts have been a delight and an inspiration. For the Musical Clubs, the first concert was on March sixth; for the first time, it was given in the Academy Chapel rather than the Town Hall. This is as it should be, not only on account of the better facilities, but also because, as an Academy function, the chapel is the place for it. The second, a combined concert and dance, at Rogers Hall, in Lowell, Mass., was most pleasant. On April 11th the annual joint concert of the combined Exeter and Andover Musical Clubs was given at Exeter, followed by a smoker for the members of both clubs, and the usual concert was given at Jordan Hall in Boston on April 18th. Invariably the programs were interesting and well rendered; certainly great credit is due Mr. Shrewsbury for his excellent work.

Though Mr. Shrewsbury's organ recitals and the occasional Sunday night concerts in the chapel do not exactly come under the head of student activities, and hence have not been taken up in past PEANS, yet we feel that they are a part of the year's musical activities and as such should be mentioned. Among others, there was a program by the Burgin-Fox-Bedetti trio of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, which was very entertaining. Perhaps the finest concert was that on May third, by the Vannini Ensemble of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, whose program was as usual extremely beautiful. In addition to these, there were several recitals by various well-known artists. Certainly these concerts add a great deal to the pleasure and interest of school life.

Dramatics

DRAMATICS at Exeter are becoming yearly of greater interest to the student body as a whole. Mr. Webber, recognizing this interest, laid plans a few years ago for an Exeter Dramatic Association, to be made up of those students who show the greatest interest and ability in this line. Such an organization was formed during the past winter, with Mr. Webber as its director, and has served as a nucleus from which to build up a greater interest in acting and with which Mr. Webber can work to better advantage in presenting the season's plays.

The new custom of three one-act plays at Christmas instead of one long one was continued this year with three excellent productions by the Dramatic Association. Particularly worthy of note was the work of J. Stewart French as the Jonkheer Ian Van Der Bom in "My Lady's Lace," and of Charles W. Duhig as the man in "The Rising of the Moon," although all three productions were well above the average student performance. The spring play is to be "The New Boy."

The interest of Les Cabotins in Dramatics is manifested each year by a production in French, this year "Les Precieuses Ridicules," by Molière. Mr. Barrett invariably succeeds in choosing an excellent cast and in presenting a very well done and most entertaining piece.

The 1925 Vaudeville Show was, as usual, highly entertaining, with the musical numbers striking the high note of the performance. The "Wolverines" were really good.

Christian Fraternity

THE Christian Fraternity is the only religious organization in the Academy. Its most important function is the annual collection of a budget of thirty-six hundred dollars, most of which is used in various kinds of social service. A part of this budget takes care of the Red Cross membership of the entire student body; a part is used for Salvation Army work in the town; much of it is used for home and foreign missionary work, and the rest is given over to providing the fall term entertainments, Sunday evening speakers, and the publication of the "E" Book.

The fraternity does a great deal toward bringing the new student into close touch with Exeter life. The "E" Book is a guide book for the new student, giving him all necessary information as regards the school, while the fall term entertainments afford the means by which the new boy first finds enjoyment in company with his fellows. Just before the Christmas vacation a collection of old clothes is made by the fraternity, and they are distributed among the students who are working their way through school. Among the best speakers of the year at the Sunday night meetings were: Dr. Denison, Mr. Darling, Mr. Tyson, and Thomas Mott Osborne.

Social

SOCIAL activities during the past year have been at least as successful as in former seasons, if perhaps not more so. The first event was the annual football dance, on the night of the Andover game; this year it was especially successful, as might be expected from that afternoon's victory, as well as from the quality of the music. The winter term dance, on March 7, was also successful from every point of view. At that time, a new innovation was started, one that might well be made a regular affair; namely, a tea dance before the regular dance, at which the Jazz Band played for the couples and a limited number of stags. That day was, as usual, the high-water mark in the year's social activities, with the exception of the June Ball. The spring term dance, under the auspices of the Southern Club, was, as usual, a fitting precedent to the June Ball. The June Ball, of course, takes place after the publication of this volume; hence no comment.

One radical change took place in the social world this year; we refer to the passing of the Assembly Club. Its functions have been largely assumed by Les Cabotins and other organizations, and it is perhaps as well that the Assembly Club has ceased to exist, for it had no particular function except the dances. Certainly its passing has in no wise been detrimental to the social success of the past year, and that fact in itself would seem to indicate its lack of real usefulness.

June Ball Girl

*Could I but recall the loved night that is fled,
That June night is dead,
And live it again,*

*With no thought of the pain—
Remembering the short night of heaven,
Forgetting the long months of hell . . .*

*For you came with the evening, fair
As the jewel in your hair.
And you seemed to be one with the music and moon,
One—in an unsung tune.*

*I remember your face when you'd pass,
Gleaming forth from the mass,
Like a flaming and gay-petalled flower
In a grey autumn bower.*

*I remember you after the ball,
In your light yellow shawl,—
And your eyes were as bright as the stars,
And your lips were as soft as the night . . .*

*Then you passed, like the dew with the dawn,
Soft o'er the lawn;
And you sang as you waved your goodby—
I sang—and then tried to die.
Yet I love you,
Remembering the short night of heaven,
Forgetting the long months of hell . . .*

THE 1924 football season, which reflects great credit not only on Coach Blake, Captain O'Connell, and Trainer Murch, but also on the team as well, will go down in Exeter football history as a very successful year. With a squad of about forty men as a nucleus, including a great deal of promising material and nine letter-men, Coach Blake developed a fast and aggressive team during the preliminary season, which, in the end, showed itself superior to Andover.

In the preliminary season two defeats were outweighed by four victories. In the opening game the Academy eleven scored a 6-0 victory over the Dartmouth Freshmen. Ellis, Exeter quarterback, after catching the opening kick-off one yard behind his own goal line, evaded the entire Freshman defense and scored the only points of the game. On the following Saturday, at New Haven the Academy scored a 9-7 victory over the Yale Freshmen. The injury sustained by Pine in this game proved a decided handicap in later games. The next week the Harvard Freshmen succumbed to the fast-developing Exeter eleven in a rather slow game, 14-0; Ellis starred with his open field running. But the Princeton Freshmen game, a week later, at Princeton, broke the line of Exeter victories with a score of 7-0. This game was rather unfortunate, for practically the whole first team sustained ankle injuries. The Worcester game on November first concluded the losing streak, when a badly-crippled Exeter eleven went down to a 15-6 defeat at the hands of the Red and Black. The preliminary season came to a close a week later, as the Exeter team triumphed over the Hebron eleven 19-6.

The forty-third annual Exeter-Andover football game was played in the new stadium at Brothers Field, Andover, on November 15. The first score for Exeter was delayed in the opening minutes of play when Andover held on their one-yard line. In the second quarter O'Donnell, of Exeter, scored the first points with a drop kick from the 27-yard line. With the score 3-0 against her, Andover made a decided stand in the third quarter with the result that Exeter did not score. But in the last period after Dewing and Foster had broken up Andover's kick on the 26-yard line, Foster recovered the ball for Exeter. In the next few plays, Exeter steadily gained until Ellis finally took the ball over through left tackle. Brandenburg added the final point by his kick after the touchdown. Twenty-six men won their letters, but only nine were awarded sweaters.

ON February 2, 1924, Exeter participated in the B. A. A. Indoor Meet, which was the first contest of the year. Running against Andover's veteran team in the mile relay, the Academy team, composed of H. K. Weir, F. J. Sullivan, J. B. Carson, and Captain O'Neil, was unsuccessful.

The Faculty Shield Meet, which was held, as usual, on the 22nd of February, was won by the Senior Class. In this meet, a singular feat was accomplished by C. T. Elliott, who unofficially broke the world's record of six seconds for the 45-yard high hurdles by covering the distance in five and four fifths seconds.

The last indoor meet, the B. A. A. Indoor Interscholastic Meet, was held on March 1st. On this occasion, Andover again defeated the Academy by a score of 25 to 18. Captain O'Neil and C. T. Elliott both did exceptional work; the former lowered the record for the 1000-yard run by four fifths of a second, and the latter equalled the record for the 45-yard hurdles.

On April 22nd, the outdoor track season was begun by Exeter's entering a relay team in the Pennsylvania Relay Carnival. The team, made up of Luce, Wright, Trafford, and Captain O'Neil, took fifth place in the Interscholastic Medley Relay Race. As Wright was badly spiked early in the race, Exeter succeeded in taking only fifth place.

The next meet was held on May 3rd with the Harvard Freshmen, whom Exeter defeated by a score of $76\frac{1}{2}$ - $49\frac{1}{2}$. In this contest, three school records were broken. J. A. Brandenburg bettered the old mark in the discus by three inches, and S. Robbins threw the javelin 157 feet, 2 inches. For the 220-yard low hurdles, R. H. O'Connell also lowered the record.

A week later, Exeter again sent a full team to compete against Andover, but this time to the Harvard Interscholastics. Exeter was defeated by her rival by a score of 55-38 $\frac{3}{4}$. Although Brandenburg, Dalenz, and Elliott all took first places, Captain O'Neil did the best work by lowering the former record in the 880-yard run one fifth of a second.

In the last two preliminary meets before the final meet with Andover, Exeter was easily victorious. The M. I. T. Freshmen were defeated in the first meet with a score of 88 1-3-37 2-3, and the Springfield Freshmen were overwhelmed in the second by a 97-24 score. In the contest with the M. I. T. Freshmen, Brandenburg again broke the record in the discus with a throw of 125 feet.

Andover won the final meet for the second time in succession with a score of 71-55. Four records were bettered in this meet. Brandenburg, O'Connell, and Captain O'Neil, all of Exeter, lowered the records in their respective events. Brandenburg threw the discus 129 feet, 7 inches; O'Connell covered the distance of the low hurdles in 25 seconds; and O'Neil ran the half mile in 1 minute, 57 seconds. Healey, of Andover, broke his own record in the javelin, while Borah, also of Andover, won both the 100 and 220-yard dashes, equalling the record for the latter.

Baseball

A SQUAD of thirty men, with five letter-men, responded to the call for baseball candidates, which was issued in the latter part of the winter term by Coach Murch. Batting practice was held in the baseball cage, and the prospects of a hard-fighting Exeter team seemed very probable.

On April 12th, 1924, the team opened the season by defeating Cambridge Latin 5 to 4 in a ten-inning game. The next seven games were victories for the Exeter nine; especially noteworthy was the defeat of the strong Harvard Second team. Brown Freshmen, Yale Freshmen, and Worcester were the only games lost during the preliminary season. In the forty-fourth annual Exeter-Andover baseball game, held at Brothers Field, Andover, the Academy team was defeated 9 to 0. The game was much closer than the score would indicate, as, with the exception of two innings, the game was a pitchers' duel between Linscott, of Exeter, and Shoop, of Andover; both teams fielded equally well. Exeter made four errors; Andover, three. After four scoreless innings, Andover got three runs; again in the eighth inning, six Andover men crossed the plate. Exeter had men on the bases several times, and in the last inning filled them. Shoop tightened at the critical point, and allowed no runs.

The scores of the season do not show a brilliant record; neither do they show the splendid fighting spirit of the team, of which we are justly proud. Coach Murch has done his work well with the little he had on which to build a team. We hope for a more successful season this year.

Basketball

THE basketball season of the past year can be truly termed successful, for, in spite of the loss of players, the Academy team succeeded in winning five of the eight preliminary games as well as the Andover game, for the first time since 1922. The opening game, played with Tilton Seminary, was a 37 to 22 victory for the Academy, with Captain Merrill and Thompson, of Exeter, starring. In the next game, with Westbrook, the Academy team showed marked improvement, and in spite of the excellent playing of Parnell, of Westbrook, won easily with a score of 43 to 13. The first defeat came the following week, at the hands of Hebron Academy, whose team, playing fast and accurately, took the lead at the start and held it throughout the game, though Exeter constantly threatened. The next game was easily won from Cushing Academy by a score of 44 to 27, with Thompson, of Exeter, starring. On the next Saturday the Dartmouth freshman team overcame the Academy, by a score of 32 to 26, in an exciting and hard-fought game. In the following game the Red and Gray players gained a 29 to 22 victory over Worcester Academy, but suffered defeat again at the hands of the Harvard freshmen, in the only out-of-town game of the season. The last preliminary game resulted in an easy victory over Kent Hill, with Captain Merrill and Brockelman starring.

The Andover game was played in the Thompson Gymnasium on March fourteenth, ending in a 28 to 23 victory for Exeter. This victory evened the basketball series, each school having won three games. During the first few minutes of play the lead shifted constantly, but the end of the first half found Exeter with a 14 to 10 lead. Early in the second half, however, Andover, playing a fine offensive game, succeeded in gaining the lead, and for a few minutes it constantly shifted from one team to the other, coming to a tie score until Captain Merrill, of Exeter, succeeded in making two foul shots. A few minutes later the game ended with Exeter in the lead, 28 to 23. Captain Merrill, on the offense, and Brockelman, on the defense, starred for Exeter, while, for Andover, Captain Billhardt and Burns played well.

Hockey

THE 1925 hockey season was, on the whole, successful, despite the fact that the annual game with Andover had to be cancelled because of poor ice. The unusual mildness of the weather often made the ice unfit for practice, and caused the cancelling of several games. The schedule, as actually played, consisted of seven games.

Captain Crosby and three others, who had played on the 1924 team, formed a nucleus for the squad. From these and the new men Coach Rogers succeeded in forming a fast and strong team.

Exeter won four of their five games with outside schools; their only defeat was suffered at the hands of the strong Cambridge Latin sextet. The Academy team played two games with the Exeter Hockey Club. In one, they emerged victor; in the other, they were defeated.

In all games, the all-round play of Captain Crosby, the aggressive tactics of O'Donne'l, and the defense work of Captain-elect Foster stood out.

Crew

THE 1924 crew season produced two Exeter fours that won three of their four preliminary races, as well as the letter race with Middlesex. In the middle of February a squad of forty, including three letter men, reported to Mr. Benton for work on the rowing machines. The initial race brought the Exeter fours a double victory over the Harvard Freshmen. The preliminary season continued favorably, with victories over Brookline High School and Pomfret. In the only defeats sustained during the season, the first and second fours lost to Noble and Greenough.

The season ended successfully by the victory of the Academy first and second fours over the Middlesex crews in the annual letter race. The contest was held under most trying weather conditions. In the race between the first fours, Middlesex, taking a slight lead, held it until the final sprint, when Exeter forged ahead and won by a length. The Academy second four gained a lead at the start, and kept it throughout the entire race. By this third consecutive victory over Middlesex, Exeter received the Columbia Cup as its permanent trophy.

This, the 1925 season, should prove more successful than any previous season. Mr. Curwen, of the English Department, who has rowed for several years at Harvard, is acting as Mr. Benton's assistant on the coaching staff, and this alone should mean a great deal, for the squad in recent years has been so large that one man cannot handle it adequately. Much new equipment has been added, including a new motor boat, which is considerably faster than the old one; this will enable both coaches to be on the river at the same time, working with all seven shells.

Swimming

AFTER a very successful preliminary season in which Exeter won every meet, the Academy swimming team barely defeated Andover in a very close contest.

On January 24, the swimming team opened its season by an easy victory over Newton High School with a score of 53 to 18. A week later, the Academy swimmers won a decisive victory over Malden High School with the highest score of the season, 54 to 8. In the following meet, in which the school records in the 100-yard dash and in the 100-yard breast stroke were broken by Newick and S. Dow respectively, the Academy team won from M. I. T. Freshmen, 53 to 9. The next meet was one with a team composed of the best swimmers in the combined Boston High Schools. The score of this meet was: Exeter, 51; Boston High Schools, 11. On February 21, the team defeated Worcester by the high score of 53 to 9. In this meet Exeter won all first places, and set a new school record in the 100-yard dash.

The last two meets of the preliminary season proved to be the most interesting. In the first of these two, the Academy triumphed over Huntington, 51 to 20. Four records were set in this meet. They were as follows: Captain Pope established a new record in the 50-yard dash; Haseltine, in the 50-yard back stroke; S. Dow, in the 100-yard breast stroke; and Howland, in the 200-yard swim. After setting a new record in the relay race, the swimming team won its final preliminary meet over the Brookline Swimming Club, 42 to 20.

The Andover meet was closely contested from the beginning to the end. Five tank records were broken, and Bartlett completed his second consecutive season without suffering a defeat. Howland broke the record in the 200-yard swim by completing the distance in 2 minutes, 18 2-5 seconds. Andover broke the other four. Exeter won with the slight margin of four points, the score being Exeter, 33; Andover, 29.

Tennis

THE Academy Tennis Team, under the able direction of Mr. Rogers, finished a very successful season with a 5-4 victory over Andover. A very strong squad was developed, which defeated, during the preliminary season, Newton High School, Dorchester High School, English High School, St. Paul's School, and tied the Dartmouth Freshmen. In the Harvard Interscholastics Exeter took second place with seventeen points. The final meet with Andover was a close one, Exeter winning by only one point.

GOLF, at Exeter, is still in its infancy, although an Academy team is formed which plays other schools. The facilities, the Jady Hill course, are not the best, but serve very well for those interested in the sport. Last year Coach Crosbie developed a strong team from the large number that entered the tournament. The team defeated Dorchester, Lowell, and Newton, and the Manchester Country Club, in its preliminary season and won from Andover in its last match. Bloch was elected acting captain at the beginning of the season but as the PEAN went to press Finlay, 1923, was elected by the members of last year's team.

Class Athletics

CLASS athletics at Exeter play a most important part in bringing together the various classes in clean, wholesome contests which test the sportsmanship and honor of all participating.

To every student who is not qualified for an Academy first squad, there is open a commendable field of practice in the games between the rival classes. Several faculty members devote their time to training the growing, inexperienced boy so that he may later represent some Academy team. Therefore the place which these games hold in Exeter is inestimable.

This year the Senior class surpassed in football, winning five games and tying one. From the best of the class teams an All-Class team was developed which succeeded in defeating the Andover All-Club team, 14 to 7. In basketball the Seniors again proved superior by winning the championship from the Upper Middlers, who were a close second. A week later the Seniors won first place in the Faculty Shield Meet, thereby receiving the title of the Championship Class Track Team. The baseball championship is still to be decided. We leave that for the 1926 PEAN to record. Thanks are due Mr. Stuckey, Mr. Hatch, Mr. Whitman, of the faculty, and Mr. Murch, of the athletic department, for their interest and co-operation in making class athletics a success.

EAT ALL YOU WANT

Don't be afraid to eat all you want. It contains all the muscle-building, brain-making elements in the whole wheat grain made digestible by cooking in steam, shredding and baking. It is the most real food with the least tax on the digestion.

SHREDDED WHEAT

is the favorite food for study or play in all schools and colleges. Two Biscuits with milk make a perfect meal—but lots of youngsters eat a half dozen at a sitting, and then holler for more.

TRISCUIT is the Shredded Wheat Cracker—a crisp, snappy, whole wheat toast—a nourishing pick-me-up for any time of day. Lots of food in condensed form. Delicious with butter or soft cheese.

If you are interested we will gladly send you Richard Henry Little's complete description of this marvelous animal, as published in the Chicago Tribune.

Glacier National Park

abounds in wimpusses at least so says Richard Henry Little of The Chicago Tribune.

A wimpuss is about as big as a wooglebug, but it has a long tail like a colleywop and has wings like a bear cat.

Enjoy yourself in Glacier Park while you look for wimpusses. You can ride horseback, motor camp, hike, fish, climb mountains or just loaf. Modern hotels and rustic chalet camps. Convenient reasonably priced all expense tours.

Scott's Distinctive Suits
With Young Men's Viewpoints

YOUTH will ride a hobby-horse. There are no two ways about that. Then there are many things a young man wants (and never obtains). He wants his view points respected and he likes the purchasing power of his dollar extended.

Collegians and young business men know that there is no extravagance in Scott's Standard, Style, Price or Quality.

The busy business in our young men's section emphasizes this fact better than any studied-over story we could print.
